CHINESE NOTES. "A "competent court of law" is per haps well expressed in Chinese by the words 刑名衙門. A "British Court " would be these four words preceded by 50. In China, however, the additional words 有司 must precede the four words, because no court is competent but an executive [有司] court. In England the judicial authority is independent of the executive.

She arrived at Shanghai on 27th February, and went into Dock on the 10th March. The Shanghal Daily News contains an account of the somewhat risky process of undocking this big ship in the tidal sweep of the Shaughai River. Of the repairs the News says :-"The stem was found to be broken, and the new portion affixed began at about the 15 feet line and went back about twelve 'frames.' It was all in one piece and weighed about two tous. Nine frames? of wrought iron (5 in. × 3h in.) were broken Tonking. I shall therefore, not trespass away and at least a dozen more were broken. All these of course have been replaced. Altogether the total weight of iron used in the repairs is estimated at about seven tons."

QUESTIONS. To the Editor of the " CHINA MAIL." April 15th. Sin,-"Observer" having developed into Mr Pène Sièfert, late Editor of the notorious Gory of Saigen, those who know him and his antecedents, will be able to appreciate his distribes against the French Consuls in on-each side. Four-iron plates were carried further on your space than is necessary to beg of him for the future to have the good taste, when the cacoether scribendi seizes him not to mention names of people, when they are not at hand to defend themselves. His comparison of the Consul in Hanoi to a horse in a riding-school is decidedly low and far-What a pity that the Consuls did not take M. Pene Siefert says that when I sign my name, he will "enlighten us as to the doings of a certain firm" &c.; but, not waiting for the signature, he goes on to relate some cookand-bull story of unsuccessful revolutions. Does he allude to his own attempt on the citadel of Namding? How can he state so positively that I am not a Frenchman and that I have never resided in Tongking Perhaps he only considers as Frenchmen those who are of his own political opinion. As the good people of Hongkong cannot possibly take any interest in Tongking or its affairs, I must apologize for my share of this "tempest in a tea-pot," and as I certainly dread a personal encounter with a man of M. AUDI ALTERAM PARTEM.

Sin,—Some short time ago an advertisement in your paper invited tenders for the execution of such work and repairs, and for the supply of such material, as might be required to the War Department buildings at Hongkong. By the terms of the advertisement tenderers were required to furnish "testimonials from former employers." Tenders were sent in to the Commissariat ing and reputation, but the edict has gone forth, and the mighty ones sitting in conclaye over the claims to Government patronage have decided in favor of a firm which Mr Hing Kee is the chief. Mr Hing Kee enjoys an excellent reputation as a purveyor, but I question his knowledge of builders' work, which must necessarily be of the most scant proportion. He has long been the annual contractor for supplies to the Commissariat Department, and has no doubt given satisfaction to the officers whose province it was to superintend that branch of the Public Service, but how he is going to satisfactorily carry out a trienmial contract for such work as is required by the Royal Engineer Department I fail to see. This does not, of course, mean that the Board that decided the contract was not fully satisfied. No doubt the "testimonials from former employers aubmitted by him I feel much gratitude to those who like with his tender were found to be of a satisfactory character, and it is to be hoped there is no danger of the new Military Sanitarium being exected before the casement

The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, somewhat similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review. The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature, antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of inform. ation, rendering some such channel of pub. being as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked for from the members of the foreign cons lar sorvices, the Chinese Customs' corps, and the missionary body, among whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is now assiduously cultivated, and who are severally represented in the first number of the Review by papers Fighly creditable to their respective authors. In paper on Dr. Legge's She King, by the Rev. E. J.
